LEADING STATION IN CITY WRECKED

Water Reported in Many Buildings; Washington Unable to Get Details of Disaster.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—(AP)—(Friday)—The navy department was advised early today that a storm of hurricane proportions had struck and damaged San Juan, Porto Rico.

A message received at 1:17 a. m. from the naval radio station at San Juan said the station had been damaged and that there was much water in all buildings.

The regular radio station was placed out of commission by the storm and the message was sent over the emergency station at Cayey. It said that there was not enough electricity in the city to operate the emergency station there.

"Apparently considerable damage in San Juan and vicinity," the message said.

Cayey is a remote control station in the hills above San Juan, and several miles from the radio station near the city.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 10.—(AP)—George R. Lunn, former lieutenant governor of New York, today was elected commander-in-chief of the United Spanish War Veterans in reunion here. He won over Otto N. Rath, of Minnesota, by a vote of 1,063 to 230.

Los Angeles was chosen for the 1933 reunion, next year's reunion going to Milwaukee.

Elected with Lunn were: William Otjen, Enid, Okla., senior vice commander; Martin B. Andelfinger, Dubuque, Iowa, junior commander-in-chief; Dr. Norman D. Harvey, Providence, R. I., surgeon general; and Thomas G. Baxter, Milton, Pa., chaplain-in-chief.

Mrs. Florence H. Becker, Louisville, Ky., who defeated Mrs. Clara Hendricks, St. Louis, for national president of the auxiliary, went into office with Mrs. Anna C. Jesmer, Los Angeles, senior vice president; Mrs. Mamie B. Schmidt, Atlanta, Ga., junior vice president; Mrs. Olive M. Ravens, Lansing, Mich., judge advocate.

Four French Fliers Start Distance Hop

LE BOURGET, France, Sept. 11.—(Friday).—Two French airplanes, one of them the trans-Atlantic ship of Dieudonne Coste, took off within a space of nine minutes at dawn today for Tokyo in an effort to wrest the world's non-stop distance ribbon from Russell Boardman and John Polando, New York-to-Istanbul fliers.

The Hyphen II with Joseph Lebrun, former flying partner of Coste, and Rene Meslin at the controls, was the first to go, leaving the ground at 6:06 (12:06 e. s. t.) and soaring out of sight within a few minutes.

Jacques Coudos and Sergeant Rhodius took to the air in Coste's Questor Mark nine minutes later, rising after a short run and flying fast and low.

BOOTLEGGERS FACE HEAVY U. S. TAXES

Woodcock Plans Civil Action When Criminal Cases End Inconclusively.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—(AP)—The federal prohibition bureau has laid new plans for punishing—by heavy taxation—some of the dry law violators who escape criminal fines or imprisonment.

It was learned on high authority today that the bureau has decided to use all legal weapons against Volstead law breakers, has issued revised orders for bringing civil actions against certain speakeasy operators and bootleggers.

Under these orders no effort will be made to collect civil fines or penalties from violators against whom criminal proceedings are contemplated. Nor will such actions be brought against those acquitted in the courts.

However, such efforts will be made where criminal cases terminate inconclusively, or where United States attorneys decide criminal prosecution should not be instituted.

Other penalties range from a few dollars to a possible tax of $2,000 for a state and on to a $1,000 tax under the prohibition law for manufacturing intoxicating liquor.

It was learned today there was considerable discussion within the prohibition bureau prior to the issuance of the new instructions several weeks ago.

Although the federal imposition of civil taxes and penalties upon dry law violators has been practiced since the advent of prohibition, telegraphic orders to withhold all such action suddenly were issued early this year.

These negative orders were contingent upon a decision by the United States supreme court in the case of United States vs. La France. The decision said, in effect, that a civil action to recover taxes is barred by a prior criminal conviction of the defendant for the same liquor trans-act.

Anthony LaFrance operated a restaurant in New York city.

Troops Called To Quell Arkansas Church Outbreak

JONESBORO, Ark., Sept. 10.—(AP)—Seventy-five members of the Arkansas national guard armed with side arms were patrolling the streets of Jonesboro tonight under orders of Lieutenant Colonel C. S. Gentry, assistant adjutant general, Arkansas national guard, to assist civil authorities, if necessary, in maintaining order in factional differences among members of the First Baptist church here.

At 7 p. m., the time for the opening of a revival meeting by the Rev. J. H. Heard, pastor of the church, factional leader, his revival tent, with a seating capacity of 5,000 persons, was filled to capacity.

City and county authorities viewed with alarm the tense situation growing out of factional strife among members of the First Baptist church here over efforts of the Rev. Joe Jeffers, a Baptist evangelist, to oust the Rev. D. H. Heard from the pastorate of the church.

Several hundred followers of Jeffers participated in demonstrations last night and today over the arrest of three of their number on assault and battery charges growing out of all-terations with a member of the opposing faction at the Baptist church here last night.

BRITISH INCOME TAX 90 TIMES U. S. RATE

LONDON, Sept. 10.—(UP)—The increase in income tax for the average family with an income of around $5,000 will cost the British taxpayer approximately 90 times as much as the average American pays under similar conditions. For instance, a London professional man with a wife and two children and an income of $5,000, will pay $858.50 income tax, or approximately 25 per cent counting excise taxes. The professional man in the same circumstances in the United States would pay $12.38.

For a single man with an income of $1,800 in England, the tax would be $355.50, while single men in the United States are assessed only $3.53 if their income is $1,800.

BY FRANK H. KING.

LONDON, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, searched the pockets of his countrymen today, taxing rich and poor alike with $202,500,000 in new levies to balance the 1931-1932 budget and restore world confidence in British finance.

His emergency budget, presented to the house of commons, bristled with drastic assessments. The income tax standard rate, for instance, was boosted by sixpence (12 cents), which means that every payer of the tax must turn one-fourth of his income over to the government.

The commons adjourned after agreeing to the tax increase resolutions without a vote, and next Tuesday was set for the debate on the budget. The acceptance of the budget resolutions on the first night is according to custom. The general rule is that government budget proposals are given immediate effect when they are made and challenged and debated later, if at all.

The exemption limit for married men will be reduced from $1,250 to $750, and for single men from $675 to $500. Allowances for children will be cut from $300 to $250 for the first child and from $250 to $200 for others.

Those who pay a supertax on incomes will be assessed 10 per cent more than at present.

The beer tax is increased two cents.

Atlanta Ranks Fifth In Bond Allotment

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—(Special).—In announcing the final allocation of the $800,000,000 3 per cent bond issue recently offered by the government, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon favored today that only four of the twelve federal reserve districts of the country received a larger part of the issue than the Atlanta district, which was allotted $51,032,800.

The four districts which had a greater allotment than Atlanta were, in the order named, New York, Cleveland, Philadelphia and Chicago. Atlanta ranked fifth, with $51,032,800.

Capone, Heavily Guarded, Takes Son to Ball Game

Surrounded by his watchful lieutenants, Chicago's gang chief and his 12-year-old son, Al Jr., get Gabby Hartnett, of the Cubs, to autograph a baseball just before the Cubs defeated the White Sox, 3 to 0, in a charity game before 35,000 spectators at Comiskey Park, Chicago, September 9. Pictures of Capone before the public are not frequent, and a pose with his son is rare. He affectionately calls the boy "Sonny." Note the watchfulness of one of his bodyguards directly behind him. A popcorn vendor evidently rubbed his shoulder and he looks ready to protect his chief.

NEW INDICTMENT OF CAPONE FAILS

Grand Jury Report Torn Up by Foreman, But Old Charges Stand.

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—(AP)—The government's effort to reinstate the millionaire public enemy, "Scarface" Al Capone, on some of the 5,000 prohibition law offenses charged against him went by the boards today. A grand jury report, containing no indictment, was destroyed.

The federal grand jury, instructed by United States District Judge James H. Wilkerson to look over the evidence and see if it might specify more serious charges against the gangster, was discharged without returning an indictment.

The jurors offered to report progress of their investigation, but Judge Wilkerson refused to hear it.

"I am not interested in reports, only in indictments," said the judge, explaining later that federal courts may receive no written reports from grand juries.

What was in the report was not disclosed. The jury foreman informed Judge John P. Barnes there was no report to make. Between courtrooms he had torn up the proffered statement, indicating he might release it to the newspapers and still later departing instead for a vacation.

The original indictment alleging Capone conspired to violate the prohibition act with 5,000 offenses over a decade still stands, subject to call on five days' notice. Judge Wilkerson allowed Capone to change his plea to not guilty last Tuesday and placed on the docket for future consideration the defense motion to quash the indictment.

Had Judge Wilkerson not informed Capone in July that he must take the witness stand himself if he expected leniency, Capone might now be serving time with some of his henchmen in Leavenworth prison. But Capone, manifestly disturbed at the prospect of public questioning, an unheard-of proceeding for him, protested through his attorneys that the government had promised leniency. The court, refusing to be bound by any such indictment, the gangster moved to withdraw his guilty pleas and stand trial instead. The agreement, made public later, was that the government would recommend concurrent sentences on the prohibition and income tax charges.

The court let Capone change the plea on the tax fraud count and has since fixed October 6 as the date for the trial opening.

Since July the grand jury has found sufficient evidence to indict others of the Capone gang, but apparently failed to uncover sufficient specific evidence to indict the chief himself under the Jones law with its heavy penalties.

Meanwhile Capone remains at liberty under bond. Yesterday he was photographed in the front row of the grandstand at the charity baseball game at Comiskey park.

Cox's father and an uncle, officers said, together with Dr. Lile, were charged with assault and battery, by several hundred persons who had been attending a revival at Jeffers' tent. The demonstrators today followed a march upon the jail last night by several hundred persons who had been attending a revival at Jeffers' tent.

BAUER SETS GAS VALUE FAR BELOW OTHER EXPERTS

Expert's Appraisal Goes Into Commission Evidence Over Protest of Utility's Counsel.

Showing an appraisal value of the Atlanta Gas Light Company amounting to $3,601,088 less than figures made by experts employed by the Georgia public service commission and about $4,300,000 below the figure of the company experts, the survey Dr. John J. Bauer, New York expert, made for the city of Atlanta was admitted in the record as the commission resumed its hearing Thursday on the company's application for an increase in rates.

It was not admitted, however, until after Robert C. Altman, attorney for the company, had branded it as "imaginary and theoretical and made by a man who did not go near the company's plant."

Mr. Altman protested against its admission as a part of the voluminous record but was overruled. "No," James A. Perry, chairman of the commission said, "we agreed to allow the city 90 days in which to make a separate appraisal and after they have made it I feel that we ought to let in the other appraisal."

Dr. Bauer, who was assisted in making the appraisal by Frank Batt, gas engineer of the American Public Utilities Bureau, based his findings and report to the commission upon "reproduction cost" of the present plant. His figure was $6,686,731 as compared with the commission's appraisal of $10,261,819 and that made by valuation experts of the company, which was $678,950 higher than found by the commission.

The three separate valuations have been made for the commission to determine whether, in order for the company to receive a fair return on its investment, it is entitled to boost its rates at this time. The city of Atlanta, joined by Newnan and smaller cities receiving natural gas from companies affiliated with the Atlanta company, have vigorously resisted the proposed increase.

Fixed on Court Estimate.

Previous valuations made of the property have been based, the Bauer report cited, upon the valuation fixed by the United States court in January 1, 1924, plus the additions and improvements made since that date.

Charging "uneconomical construction," the Bauer report said: "In our survey of the properties which have been included in our appraisal we have been impressed with

2 G. O. P. LEADERS ASK TAX REVISION

General Sales Levy on All Commodities Urged by Senator Reed.

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Two administration Republicans today called for tax revision at the next congress.

Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, high ranking republican on the finance committee, advocated a general sales tax of one-half of one per cent upon all commodities sold to the public.

Representative Bacharach, of New Jersey, second ranking republican on the house ways and means committee, who originates all revenue legislation, proposed a sales tax on "luxuries and non-essentials," an increase in rates on incomes of more than $100,000; restoration of the gift tax and a boost in estate tax levies.

These simultaneous declarations, coming from administration leaders in fiscal affairs, assumed added significance in view of the recent word from the White House that President Hoover is studying means of balancing the budget with another billion dollar deficit impending.

Senator Reed made a close personal and political associate of Secretary Mellon, has been in agreement with the cabinet members on revenue legislation for years. The treasury head is known to favor tax revision. Reed had an appointment with him for later today.

The pronouncements of Reed and Bacharach followed closely a declaration by Senator Watson, of Indiana, the party leader, against tax revision at this time. Democratic leaders, too, have declared against tax increases and in favor of retarding the debt retirement program.

Senator Reed estimated that his universal sales tax, applying to everything sold in the retail markets, would net the government almost two billion annually, or one-half of its total expenses.

He would retain present income tax rates, but would plug up some of the "leaks" which he says are permitting the wealthy to evade their share of

GEORGIA SOLONS PREPARING BILLS

Representatives Prepare for Expected Extra Ses- sion; Reduction Prop- osals Scored.

Texas legislators, assembled in extra session Thursday, entered into factional differences over the merits and demerits of complete or partial cotton prohibition while plans were going forward for a conference to devise substitute crops in event of a "planting holiday" next year.

The Texas house of representatives concluded its public hearings on cotton measures Thursday afternoon and the special committee instructed to study all proposals and if necessary write a bill that would meet requirements, was expected to report by noon today.

One group at the Texas capitol resented Governor Huey P. Long's radio "invasion" of Texas in the interest of his plan to completely ban cotton production in 1932, while another group supported the Louisiana governor. Governor Sterling, of Texas, was the leader of those resenting Governor Long's words.

Senate proponents of cotton acreage reduction at Austin entered into an agreement over a control bill that would restrict next year's planting to one-third of the cultivated area of this year.

Those who attended the meeting, held in Austin, Sept. 10, 1931, Texas holds the balance of power in cotton prohibition because of its production of one-third of the nation's crop and although both the Texas senate and house appeared to be making progress lack of co-ordination between proceedings of the two houses caused doubt that any bill would be enacted this week.

DR. HARRY DAVIS, N.B.C. HEAD, DIES

"Father of Radio" Passes in Pittsburgh After Long Illness.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 10.—(AP)—Dr. Harry Phillips Davis, known as "the father of radio broadcasting," died at his home today after an illness of several months.

He was chairman of the board of the National Broadcasting Company, a vice president of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company and a director in numerous other corporations. He was 63 years old.

In the experimental shack which housed KDKA, Pittsburgh, the world's first broadcasting station, he envisioned the growth of radio and had a large part in rapid development of broadcast equipment.

The world's first public broadcast was when KDKA transmitted presidential election returns of 1920. In 1926 the National Broadcasting Company was organized with Davis as its chairman and M. H. Aylesworth as its president.

As an electrical engineer Davis was responsible for improvements in railway control, transmission, development of measuring and meter equipment and circuit breakers.

EUROPEAN AMITY IS PLEA OF CECIL

Revival of International Investments Stressed as Next Dominant Need.

GENEVA, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Something must be done now—not next year—to switch on the current of international confidence and set the machinery of economic reconstruction in motion, Lord Cecil, British spokesman, told the League of Nations assembly today.

That something, he said, is a positive move toward Franco-German reconciliation.

The dominant need of the moment, said Lord Cecil, is to revive international investments.

This must be done, he said, "not in a period of years, but of months, or even weeks," else one country after another will be "forced into some form or other of extended moratorium which may endanger the whole system on which the world's economic life is based, and will be driven again into the chaos which results from demoralized currency."

"What are we doing in the meanwhile?" he asked. "What step can we take to improve the international atmosphere?"

GOVERNOR FREES 3 LIFE-TERMERS

Murder Conviction Was Miscarriage of Justice,
Executive Believes.

Governor Richard B. Russell Thursday granted "full and complete pardon" to John Morakes, Nick Morakes and John Patros, who are serving life terms for the murder of Jim Morakes, a cousin, in Madison, Ga., in 1923. Clemency pleas for the three had twice been refused by former Governor L. G. Hardman.

The evidence presented by the state at the trial was "entirely circumstantial, and in the main, was vague and exceedingly weak," the governor held, and since their conviction additional facts "convince me that their conviction was a grave miscarriage of justice and that they should be pardoned."

Jim Morakes was reported missing in June, 1923, the records show, and several days later his body was found three miles north of Columbia, S. C., 196 miles from Madison.

"The crime was alleged to have been committed in Morgan county, Georgia, on the ninth day of June, 1923," the governor stated. "It has developed since the trial that assistant state counsel who assisted in prosecution of the defendants, had made an investigation of the case preparatory to the trial and this investigation disclosed that the deceased, Jim Morakes, was in life and had been seen on the afternoon of June 10, 1923, at a small roadside country store, some few miles out of Columbia, S. C., near where the body was later found.

"This very material fact, which would have unquestionably acquitted the defendants, was suppressed and not brought to light on the trial of the case, but was disclosed by state's counsel after conviction of the defendants."

"All the defendants are foreigners and two of them could scarcely speak or understand the English language at the time of the trial, greatly handicapping their attorneys at the trial of the case, and certainly not helping them in the minds of the jury who tried them."

The governor said all three had excellent prison records.

"What is to my mind strong evidence of the innocence of the defendants is the fact that the mother and two sisters of the deceased, Jim Morakes, have stated that in their opinion the defendants were unjustly convicted and were innocent of the crime of which they stand convicted."

The three men are Greeks, Mr. Russell said, and were operating a restaurant known as the "Busy Bee" in Madison at the time Morakes disappeared. Their attorney, Albert J. Foster, of Madison, said they were convicted largely on testimony of a milkman named Watkins and a South Carolina woman who said they saw the three near Columbia shortly before the body was found.

John Patros is serving in Fayette county, John Morakes in Baldwin, and Nick Morakes in Mitchell.

QUEST FOR FLIERS COVERS WIDE AREA

Rumors From Far Afield
Hearten Searchers, But Appear Groundless.

SEATTLE, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Forty-four hundred miles of ocean and land between here and Japan hold the secret of the whereabouts of Don Moyle and C. A. Allen, missing trans-Pacific fliers.

Reports that an unidentified plane had been sighted or heard in widely separated parts of the north Pacific region mystified searchers, who were at a loss to know where to begin to look for the California aviators.

The latest report came from Whitehorse, Yukon territory, where it was supposed a plane unknown in the region had been sighted flying southward over Carmanak, 200 miles north of Whitehorse at 9:30 a.m. (12:30

Film Actor's Ashes To Be Dropped in Sea

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 10.—(AP)—An urn containing the ashes of Clayton L. Packard, 43, film character actor, who died at San Diego Monday, will be dropped into the Pacific ocean near Catalina Island Sunday in accordance with his wishes.

Packard appeared in many pictures, including "The King of Kings," "The Ten Commandments," "The Roque's Song" and "The Volga Boatman."

p.m. E. S. T.). If it was the missing monoplane, Clasia Madge, it was far afield from its charted course from Japan to Seattle.

Several hours earlier the naval radio station at Dutch Harbor forwarded a report from the steamer Arthur J. Baldwin that four passengers had heard a plane in the fog headed north-east yesterday morning. This was 45 hours after the take-off from Japan at 3:30 p.m. (E. S. T.) Monday.

Both reports could have been authentic, but aviation circles here were frankly pessimistic.

If the plane seen above Carmanak was that of Moyle and Allen, it would indicate they were forced north of their charted route. They must have landed somewhere en route to take on additional fuel, but many small settlements in Alaska unequipped with a radio station, have ample supplies of airplane gasoline.

Meanwhile, coast guard vessels and ships of private companies kept watch for the plane. In Alaska, cable and radio stations, government and private, were alert to flash the news, should the Clasia Madge or her pilots, be discovered.

The coast guard cutter Haida, about 100 miles off the south end of Vancouver island and the cutter McLane, about half way across the Pacific between Unalaska and San Francisco, were assisting in the search. Canadian authorities had instructed all points to be on the lookout.

"I believe they went down somewhere south of the Aleutians and will never be found," Captain H. D. Hinkley, north Pacific division commander of the coast guard, said. "There is one chance in a million of finding them."

KIN OF GEORGIAN IN LEGAL BATTLE

Relatives of Naval Stores Magnate Ask Test of Sanity.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Sept. 10.—A legal battle such as Camden county has not witnessed in years is raging between relatives of J. C. Buie, reputed to be Camden county's wealthiest citizen, one of the largest naval stores operators in this section, and well known in south Georgia.

Already two court decisions have been rendered in the case, and today there was a new turn when relatives representing one faction filed application with the ordinary of Camden to name a commission to pass on Mr. Buie's sanity. Unless legal action interferes, the commission will be appointed on September 23.

Relatives on one side claim that because of his advanced age Mr. Buie is an imbecile and unable to attend to his large business. Relatives on the other side claim he is in possession of all of his faculties and well able to attend to his business. A like petition was filed a few weeks ago, when

$20,000 ALLOTMENT TO SAVANNAH DISTRICT
WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—(AP) The war department today approved allotment of $20,000 to the Savannah, Ga., district for river and harbor examinations, surveys and contingencies.

A writ of prohibition was filed to stop it. A demurrer was then filed, but Judge J. H. Thomas, of the superior court, overruled the demurrer and the hearing by a commission was stopped. Now attorneys have withdrawn the original petition, and have filed a new one, omitting the features to which objection was raised.

CITIES OF GEORGIA REDUCE TAX RATES

Hawkinsville Cuts Millage in Half, Applies Entire Revenue to Schools.

HAWKINSVILLE, Ga., Sept. 10.—(AP) A reduction of the Hawkinsville city tax rate from 15 mills to 10 mills, with the entire amount of tax money collected going to the schools of the city, was announced today by J. H. McCarty, city clerk and treasurer. The city commission, of which J. D. Dyer is chairman, met last Tuesday and fixed the rate. Other members of the commission are R. F. Delmar Sr., and C. D. Davis Sr. Mr. McCarty said that Hawkinsville is the only city in the state which has not made a tax levy for the upkeep of its general government. He estimates that between $12,000 and $15,000 will be available for the schools from the 1931 collections. The approximately $20,000 for the upkeep of the city government will be available from the municipally-owned water plant, Mr. McCarty said.

In 1920 the city tax rate in Hawkinsville was 20 mills in 1930, 15 mills and for the present year 10 mills.

SPARTA AND HANCOCK SCHOOLS MAY MERGE

SPARTA, Ga., Sept. 10.—A meeting of the city board of education was held here Tuesday afternoon to decide on merging the local public schools with the county system. A committee was named to set the value of the buildings owned by the city and a meeting will be held in the next few days to make a definite decision.

The county board of education has been upset by a threatened injunction suit which would restrain this board from paying any more funds into the city treasury for the education of numbers of rural children coming here by truck. Judge James B. Park refused to grant the injunction last Saturday but the taxpayers plan to carry it up to the supreme court and Superintendent of Schools Moran has notified the city board "that no county funds will be paid until the higher court passes on the point at issue."

ALBANY REDUCES TAX RATE TO 14 MILLS

ALBANY, Ga., Sept. 10.—(AP) Albany's tax rate for the year has been set by the city commission at 14 mills, against a rate of 17 mills last year and a 19 1/2-mill rate in 1929.

The current tax rate for rates of 1 1/2 mills to schools, 4 1/2 mills to sinking fund and 2 mills to general purposes.

The commissioners stated that it might be necessary to go into the surplus of $54,000 of assets over liabilities shown in the city's financial sheet as of January 1, 1931, to supplement the 2 mills allotted to general purposes. The Albany rate of taxation is largely made possible by nearly $100,000 of revenue the city receives from the operation of its water, light and gas plants; the tax returns in Albany fell off more than $500,000 this year, but a reduction in rate was affected in face of this.

Dougherty county has also fixed its rate at 12 mills this year, which is 2 1/2 mills higher than last year, but taxpayers in the county were allowed to make their returns at much lower valuations this year, and as a result there will be actually less money paid by Albany property owners to the county, even at a higher rate. It is estimated that the total savings in ad valorem taxes will be nearly $40,000 in the city and county.

U. S. MAY ABANDON PEACE-MAKING EFFORT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—(AP) State department officials indicated today the United States would decline to use its good offices in the Mexican-Chinese expulsion controversy unless both countries request such action.

A formal request was received from the Nanking government for the United States to intercede in the expulsion by the Mexican states of Sonora and Sinaloa of Chinese.

The state department in the absence of a similar request by Mexico has taken no action and the indications today were that unless Mexico makes a similar request the American government will not intercede.

CREDIT MEN HEAR TALK BY MITCHELL

W. S. Mitchell, district manager of the United States Department of Commerce, addressed the Atlanta Association of Credit Men at their first fall meeting, Thursday night at the Atlanta Athletic Club. Mr. Mitchell told the credit men of the activities of the federal government in regulating national business.

W. D. Donk, president of the association, who is connected with the Norris Candy Company, introduced the speaker and presided over the meeting. Approximately 50 out of the 200 members attended the dinner. Mr. Mitchell said that business failures had not been increased by the economic depression above the normal rate of increase. The increase of failures has been steady since 1913, he pointed out, even though times were good.

Many thousands of dollars yearly are saved by credit bureaus, Mr. Mitchell explained, by taking over business failures and thus preventing them from going into bankruptcy. Retail credit business yearly amounts to $50,000,000,000, but the loss on this is $2,000,000,000, he said, much of which can be prevented by the credit association.

'AWFUL PROTEST VOTE' SEEN BY REPUBLICAN

Senator Frazier, of North Dakota, Predicts Administration Reverses in West.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—(UP)—

An "awful protest vote" against the administration in the west next year was predicted today by Senator Lynn J. Frazier, republican, North Dakota. Frazier arrived today after an automobile tour of the middlewest and Pacific coast states. He said Gifford Pinchot, governor of Pennsylvania, would be popular as a republican presidential nominee in the midwest.

"Pretty tough times" over the country were foretold by Frazier. He said it was worse than last year because the depression is wider spread.

"What good are crops if you can't get a price for it?" he asked. Frazier is one of the dozen so-called "progressives" also known as "sons of the wild jackass" among some easterners, who are expected to press for vigorous and direct federal relief this winter against president Hoover's opposition.

Frazier said he would "reintroduce" and press for passage of his bill to refinance farmers by enabling them to pay off their mortgages and buy back foreclosed farms. This would take "quite a lot" of money, he commented, "but it would all go back into production and increase the circulation."

On middlewest politics, Frazier said:

"Mr. Hoover has lost popularity on account of the depression. There will be an awful protest vote, larger than last year, when more new members of congress were elected than ever before in my memory."

"It would make a great deal of difference if the republicans put up a progressive, Pinchot (governor of Pennsylvania) would be popular. Coolidge? I never viewed him as much of a progressive. Of course times were better under Coolidge. I'm not blaming Mr. Hoover for everything."

"The democrats are nearly all talking Franklin D. Roosevelt."

"My sweetheart smokes 'em . . .

"NOW, you know, Bob was raised in a tobacco country. He has worked in two cigarette factories; and I have heard him say all of them are just the same. He says there are a lot of pipes and things like that running through the roofs of the factories and sometimes they look different, but that the way cigarettes are made is all the same.

"Bob says all tobaccos receive the same sort of drying—heat treatment, he called it. In one factory, he says, they may talk about 'baking' the tobaccos and in another they call it another name. He says what they actually do is to 'dry' the tobaccos—reduce the moisture in them—and that the machine that they all use is called a 'Dryer.'

"But when it comes to the quality of tobacco, that's quite a different story, so Bob says; some factories use mild, ripe tobacco, while others think that thick heavy tobacco is good enough. Bob knows tobacco and he tells me that it takes good tobacco—mild and ripe—to make a cigarette as good as CHESTERFIELD.

"You know how it is when a piece of fruit tastes just right—not raw or sharp or too ripe or tasteless—just pleasing and satisfying. Well, that's the way it is with CHESTERFIELD—they just suit me right down to the ground—they satisfy."

—And HIS sweetheart smokes 'em too!

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—(AP)—The Bolivian legation said today in a statement that the action reported in the Chaco, in which a Paraguayan and five Bolivians were reported killed, had broken the favorable status of negotiations between Paraguay and Bolivia over the Chaco question.

The statement placed the blame for the recent fighting upon Paraguay. It said:

"Hawarding Bolivia's unalterable pacific spirit, at the time when her government was answering the neutrals' note and rejoicing over the favorable atmosphere of the project part of non-aggression suggested by her, Paraguay once again breaks this favorable status by attacking Bolivian positions."

TROOPS CALLED IN CHURCH RIFT

after services, but the Heard group voted the proposal down.

At the services tonight Jeffers received a great ovation as he entered and mounted the platform, coming from a prayer meeting in which he and a small group of followers had prayed for more than two hours on the theme, "If Martial Law Be God's Will, Then God's Will Be Done."

As he brought the ovation to an end with a silencing gesture, Jeffers said "we are gathered here tonight to worship God and whatever we do will be to the glory of God. I want this meeting to be peaceful. It has been said that I sought to glorify myself, but I tell you what I have done I did only to the glorification of the Cross," pointing as he said this to a huge cross on the platform behind him.

At this point Jeffers was called from the platform by Lieutenant James Puckett, in charge of the guardsmen at the tent, who told the evangelist that the guardsmen were there solely to preserve order and not to break up the assembly.

Jeffers responded to the lieutenant, saying "I am here to preach the word of God and that alone. We shall continue to meet peacefully and you can rest assured my people tonight will pass a resolution pledging themselves to maintain strict law and order."

Jeffers then stepped back on the platform and began his sermon.

While the meeting was in session, guardsmen were directing traffic at the principal intersections.

The audience appeared captivated by the words of the 33-year-old evangelist. He spoke in a quick staccato, Dr. D. H. Heard, pastor of the First Baptist church, whose removal is sought on the basis of charges made by Jeffers from the platform of his revival tent, where he has been conducting meetings for the past several weeks, declined to comment on the situation in his congregation.

Jeffers charged that Heard was guilty of misconduct while pastor of a church at Big Spring, Texas. A committee of two members of the church flew to Texas recently and returned with affidavits purportedly from the deacons of the church there exonerating Dr. Heard of the charges.

During the course of his sermon tonight the evangelist made a vitriolic attack on the private life of Dr. Heard and also on two of the leaders of the church here, Denver Dudley, former state legislator, and Gordon Crenshaw, deacon, who recently flew to Big Spring, Texas, and obtained affidavits purporting to show deacons of the church there vindicated Dr. Heard of any guilt in the Jeffers accusations.

The evangelist dwelt with emphasis on Biblical quotation, "I have come to create divisions. The word of God is like a two-edged sword."

He asserted the "two-edged sword of truth" tending to create divisions was necessary to eradicate the evils of hypocrisy and double lives.

His sermon was punctuated frequently by choruses of "Amen" from the audience, especially when he attacked Dr. Heard or other members of the opposing faction.

He based another portion of his sermon on the first two chapters of Ezekiel, dealing with the denunciation of false prophets. He said he believed it was his work to denounce the "false prophets of Jonesboro."

The meeting was conducted in an orderly manner.

Urges Sales Tax

David Reed, republican senator from Pennsylvania and member of the finance committee of the senate, Thursday started his colleagues by advocating a general sales tax as a means to end the federal deficit.

the burden at the expense of those earning incomes. He proposed, in this respect, abolishment of the capital gains and loss levy.

Both Reed and Bacharach took issue with Chairman Wool of the house appropriations committee who would cut government expenditures down to revenue, principally by paring down the costs of the army and navy.

Senator Reed, who is chairman of the military committee and served on the American delegation to the London naval limitations conference, asserted national defense was down in cost now to the "danger point."

Hits Bonus Money.

He said more money was paid out in bonus plans to the veterans this year than it cost to run the army and navy.

"If the bonus keeps on we are going to see inevitably the army and navy cut below the danger point."

"At the present time," he said, "we have pared our army down to the point where we have fewer soldiers per capita than any other civilized country on earth. Our costs are high because we feed our soldiers better and because we pay them better but we don't feed them too well and we don't pay them too much."

Reed said he hoped to see further reductions in the navy but not until other nations agreed to this also and "not to the place where we will have a navy second to any other."

Bacharach in his statement agreed with the republican independents advocating higher income taxes that "the rich are getting richer and the poor are getting poorer." The cited statistics on investment incomes to show that "the only class which reaped substantial profits during the years 1925 to 1929 consisted of about 14,700 individuals with net incomes in excess of $100,000 per annum."

Other Class Loses.

"This class," he said, "increased their investment income and probably their capital by more than 50 per cent; the other classes lost ground."

"In view of the fact that the government has placed no substantial limitation on the remuneration of wealth and because in recent prosperous years the relatively few tax-

Marion Davies Pays $825,000 Back Taxes

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—(AP)—The Herald Tribune says that Marion Davies, motion picture actress, has settled a $1,000,000 federal income tax case by paying the bureau of internal revenue $825,000.

Miss Davies, on her return from Europe today, said the deficit in her income tax involved earnings over a period of years on properties which she owns in New York.

The actress said her failure to pay taxes resulted from a misunderstanding with her real estate agent, who she thought was taking care of the payments.

She made one trip to Washington to effect the compromise adjustment, she told the newspaper.

Fine Weather Seen For Atlanta Today

Rainfall deficiency this year .14.08 in.
Temperature Thursday .83 degrees
Temperature one year ago .90 degrees

With frequent "Ho hums," C. F. von Herrmann, United States meteorologist, Thursday warned off fall fever long enough to assure Atlantans that today will be another sample of "fine, fair weather."

Temperatures will continue to be just warm enough to give people that lazy feeling they "enjoy" in spring, the weatherman said. The minimum Thursday was 68 and the maximum 88. Today will see a similar temperature range, he said.

Flyer's Estate.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Frank H. Goldsborough, 18-year-old aviator, who was killed in Vermont more than a year ago in attempting to regain the junior transcontinental flight record, left an estate of $41,000, according to appraisal filed with the surrogate.

payers with net incomes in excess of $100,000 have actually accumulated extraordinary amounts of capital, it seems obvious that these individuals are able to bear and should bear the bulk of any increased tax burden."

Senator Reed disclosed that he favored the inheritance or estate tax, but he did not go so far as Bacharach and propose increasing these rates.

Likewise, he believed no good would be accomplished by boosting the income tax levies, arguing that tax rates on incomes above the present scale were bound to lead to "evasion."

"Our present dilemma in the treasury," he argued, "illustrates the unwisdom of having a very narrow tax basis. We have been trying to get our federal revenue out of one-half of 1 per cent of the population. We have been doing this on the theory of taxing those best able to bear the burden, but as a matter of fact we haven't actually reached that group. It isn't the rich man who is actually paying the tax, but the big earner, not the rich capitalists, but the successful engineers, doctors and other workers. Capitalists have had no trouble at all in minimizing their burden."

"Thus, the moment that earning diminishes as in the present depression, the whole bottom falls out of income tax collections. The results show the necessity for tax revision rather than for tax increase."

Republican independents who hold the balance of power in the next session already are on record for tax revision, but their proposals have been closer to the program advanced by Representative Bacharach than that forwarded by Senator Reed.

Senator Brookhart, of Iowa, one of the republican independents, quickly declared against the sales tax proposal.

"I am in favor," he said, "of taxing Senator Reed's income and Secretary Mellon's income. I would boost the rates on the higher incomes and put the estates tax levies back to where they were in 1925."

ADAMS' TRIAL DRAWS GEORGIA WITNESSES

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—(AP)—The case of the government against Leonard C. Adams, former first officer of the American freighter Sundance, who admits having shot and killed Seaman Myak Wooker, aboard ship in the harbor of Ghent, Belgium, claiming he did so in self-defense, was presented to the federal grand jury Thursday.

Assistant United States Attorney T. J. Todarelli returned Thursday from the south where, in Charleston, S. C., and Savannah, Ga., he examined members of the ship's crew. He reported to United States Attorney George Z. Medall with transcripts of testimony and said he had subpoenaed a number of witnesses.

Have you what is commonly called that Tired Feeling?

"I just can't go on"

... how often you hear this

So often the reason is simple—that good body of ours has "run-down" under the strain of our way of living—pressure of work and worry.

Those important precious red-blood-cells that mean so much to vitality become lowered in count—the hemoglobin percentage begins to fall and we wonder "what is the matter?"

If this is your trouble, why not take steps to overcome it—remembering that a "tired feeling" may be a warning—so are pimples, boils and paleness. A general run-down condition means a lack of normal resistance to infection and disease.

For generations S.S.S. as a tonic has been helping people gain New Strength, better health and happiness. Its successful record of over 100 years in restoring strength and vitality to the blood surely warrants your giving it a good trial.

Why not start taking S.S.S. today?—the larger size represents a price saving.

Helps you build New Red-Blood-Cells

"Mother, I do wish you were well and strong"

It is important to know that the red-blood-cells are the "ships" that sail in the blood stream and carry nourishment and oxygen to all parts of the body. Whenever the number is materially reduced, lowered vitality ensues and the system becomes more susceptible to the ravages of various diseases.

(Left) Microscopic view of healthy red-blood-cells. The blood stream should contain about 5,000,000 of these cells to the cubic millimeter. They carry nourishment and oxygen to every part of the body—they also remove impurities from the tissues.

(Right) Weak red-blood-cells—only 60 per cent of normal strength—they lack the power to resist infection and disease or to rebuild flesh and to carry away the impurities. Such a condition is often responsible for body weakness, paleness, sallow complexion, pimples and boils.

Don't let them count you out!

CHURCH POWER REINFORCED.

The Evangelical Ministers' Association of Atlanta has done a wise and spiritual thing in committing the churches to active and wholehearted participation in the relief work of the community this coming winter. It is an action that will meet the approval and co-operation of all humanitarians, Christian or otherwise, because it is a timely and awaited recognition by church leaders of the chief obligations imposed upon them by Christianism.

Earlier in the life of the churches founded upon the principles of the Christ they were the veritable "pools of Sion" to which the hungry, the halt, the lame, and the sick and destitute, came for that sympathy and support which a church of the Christ was organized to give. Without those obligations the church degenerates into an artificial of professional altruism and finds itself blocked and baffled by the racketeers of Abaddon, the evil spirit of this world.

They are widely erring leaders in the churches who seek to expand it in its modern forms into the spiritual communism of its first necessities. The times are changed and civilization is differently organized than when the disciples of Christ professed to "hold all things in common." Life has become specialized. The affairs of communities are now committed to agencies functioned by experts in their vocations. The "union of church and state" is definitely broken in almost all civilized countries. Economics, ethics and politics are no longer in the agenda of spiritual bodies.

The ministers who frankly recognize those facts are the true apostles of the Christ spirit, and when they turn from the paths of politics and lead their churches in the greater works of the Christ, the feeding of the hungry, the healing of the sick and the preaching of the gospel to the poor, they are exalting their own commissions and reviving the character and power of their churches.

THE GENESIS OF DEPRESSION.

Seldom has Scripture been more vividly fulfilled than in the various and sundry "Labor Day" speeches by leaders of labor and of political economy made over the country on Monday. The crux of the occasion was what to do about unemployment and to cure that, there were as many confident remedies as there were contributors. Doctors. The panaceas ranged from the way from a few dollars of dole every week to every one out of a job to a $2,000,000,000 works appropriation to give a "permanent job" and a high wage to every man, woman and child now hunting for a meal ticket.

A careful reading of the telegraphed summaries gives one the conviction that American wisdom has not yet found any clear road out of the business, industrial and occupational tangle in which the whole people have become involved by the maladministration of our public economies. The politics of the republican party in full power have been plainly more responsible for the country's plight than any conditions of politics, or industry, or finance in the other nations of civilization.

To argue that this powerful peo-

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

By Pierre Van Paassen
The commissariat of education of the Russian soviet republic considers the anti-religious campaign which is being developed against the Jewish autumnal religious festivals a most important political duty, says a circular which the education commissariat has issued to all the educational departments in the republic and a copy of which I saw in the "red" embassy of Paris. In view of the fact that the anti-religious campaign is developing in the midst of the autumn sowing campaign, the beginning of the new school year, and the opening of the fourth year of the five-year plan, the circular proceeds, the education commissariat instructs all educational departments to take an active part in their respective localities in the conduct of the anti-religious campaign against the Jewish festivals this year.

Practically every pound of depression that has fallen upon the business and labor of the country was loosed upon them from the hour when, listening to Hawley, Smoot, and Joe Grundy, the producers, factors and consumers of the nation realized that another flood of tariff robberies was being prepared for them. At once uncertainty gripped the minds of the business leaders everywhere over the land, producers of export goods found foreign demands for their falling off, and consumers began to reduce their daily demands at the stores and increase their deposits in secure savings banks. Labor found employment scarce and wages threatened. And in spite of many "conferences" and "agreements" under White House auspices, matters steadily grew worse.

If any one knows a better and truer explanation of the existing state of business impoverishment than that republican misrule has produced it, let him step to the front forthwith and exhibit his graph. He was not on any of the platforms of Labor Day assemblies on Monday. And he is not busy around Washington republican headquarters or at the microphones of the republican national committee.

In fact, the only rational views of the situation were those of a few thinking democrats who have no nostrum to propagate. They told the nude truth when they told labor and the people at large that Hawley-Smootism is the deus ex machina that has put the richest nation in Christendom "on its uppers," and the true way out is by the return of the government to the old wise policies and equities of the democratic creed.

THE COTTON OF THE SOUTH.

Any plan to control the production of cotton in the south and avoid price-depressing surpluses is sure to find objectors here and there who imagine evil effects not likely to happen.

Whatever plan to curtail overproduction will entail hardships upon some addicts to the one-crop habit, but the injury to them cannot be compared with the universal injury to all the growers of southern cotton consequent upon pursuing the present desolating system of overloading the markets.

The fear that a year of half production, or of non-production will lose their market to southern growers is unwarranted. The present crop added to the holdover surplus will just about meet world cotton demands for the two years involved, leaving an empty open market for the world crop of 1933.

There will be no inducement in that condition for England, Egypt, India or other cotton districts to accelerate their cotton production, well knowing that the south's cotton is still available in full volume and that volume will be continued to the full measure after the non-production holiday of 1932, should it be declared.

The world simply cannot cut the south out of its cotton industries. With proper and regular calculation of its crops to estimated world demands the south will still dominate the cotton situation. The loss of a year's crop is not to be compared with the losses that will follow a continuance of overproduction during the next few years until the world recovers its balance.

Will Rogers should beware of a vice-presidential nomination by the democrats. The only humorist they ever nominated was Tom Marshall and he had to serve two terms hand-runnin'.

It is queer how many republican newspapermen want to announce Al Smith's political intentions for him. But Al needs no ghost writers when he chooses to talk or print.

Senator Jim Watson is opposed to any tariff revision. To open it might expose that it never did contain that "peak of prosperity" he ranted about so lustily.

The weather reports from the political fields all indicate a huge democratic crop next year.

THE COTTON OF THE SOUTH.

Any plan to control the production of cotton in the south and avoid price-depressing surpluses is sure to find objectors here and there who imagine evil effects not likely to happen.

Whatever plan to curtail overproduction will entail hardships upon some addicts to the one-crop habit, but the injury to them cannot be compared with the universal injury to all the growers of southern cotton consequent upon pursuing the present desolating system of overloading the markets.

The fear that a year of half production, or of non-production will lose their market to southern growers is unwarranted. The present crop added to the holdover surplus will just about meet world cotton demands for the two years involved, leaving an empty open market for the world crop of 1933.

There will be no inducement in that condition for England, Egypt, India or other cotton districts to accelerate their cotton production, well knowing that the south's cotton is still available in full volume and that volume will be continued to the full measure after the non-production holiday of 1932, should it be declared.

The world simply cannot cut the south out of its cotton industries. With proper and regular calculation of its crops to estimated world demands the south will still dominate the cotton situation. The loss of a year's crop is not to be compared with the losses that will follow a continuance of overproduction during the next few years until the world recovers its balance.

Will Rogers should beware of a vice-presidential nomination by the democrats. The only humorist they ever nominated was Tom Marshall and he had to serve two terms hand-runnin'.

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY

THE HOSPITAL FOR INSANITY.
Insanity is a disease. Yet some states go backward or benighted that they have laws requiring that the patient's mental condition be testified to and passed upon by a jury. This is the case in the state of New York. The insane are confined in the state hospitals, and these hospitals are the very best places for such patients, no matter whether they have spent great wealth or none.

In New York there are four ways in which patients may get into the state hospitals. In the first place, the insane are confined in the state hospitals, and these hospitals are the very best places for such patients, no matter whether they have spent great wealth or none.

Among the welfare leaders appointed were: J. Herbert Case, of New York, president of the Association of Community Chests and Councils; William J. Ellis, Trenton, N. J., president of the American Association of Public Welfare Officials; John Barton Payne, chairman of the Red Cross; Mrs. John M. Glenn, New York city, of the Russell Sage Foundation, and Colonel Edward Underwood, New York city, of the Salvation Army.

Others named to the committee were: C. M. Bookman, Cincinnati; Martin H. Grundy, Grand Rapids; E. D. Duffield, New York; John K. Ottley, Atlanta; Frank R. Phillips, Pittsburgh; Raymond Robins, Brookline, Mass.; Tom K. Smith, St. Louis; Mrs. Robert R. Spence, New York city; L. J. Taber, of the National Guard, Columbus; Thomas H. Gifford announced today that Young had called a meeting of his committee here September 18.

MAYOR SETS GAS VALUE FAR BELOW OTHER EXPERTS

The large amount of new construction in recent years in connection with the change to natural gas.

"Large and long transmission lines have been built, in our judgment, at a cost of $100,000,000. We have exhausted every resource of revenue, and there simply is not enough money to make the gas plant. Next year we will face a very lean year and we cannot possibly contemplate carrying over an additional deficit from this year's operations."

The city deficit is estimated at $1,067,000 with schools carrying $855,000 of the total. The salary schedule would absorb only about $500,000.

CONVENTION HEAD OPPOSES MERGER

Col. Paxton Says Bureau Never Part of Chamber. Suggests Conferences.

A proposal by the Chamber of Commerce for the Atlanta Convention and Tourist Bureau to merge with the chamber will be considered only on the basis of the continued efficiency of the organization and the possibility that the consolidation might be a contribution toward the civic solidarity of Atlanta, Colonel F. J. Paxton, president of the bureau, declared Thursday.

Colonel Paxton pointed out that the "Atlanta Convention and Tourist Bureau is a unique organization. It was never a part of the Chamber of Commerce." The bureau was organized in 1913 under the leadership of Wilmer Moore, he said.

Plans for a merger of the two organizations have been announced by Roy LeCraw, new president of the chamber, who said that a number of functions of the chamber have drifted away into separate organizations and that efforts will be made to bring them back into a "Community Chest of civic organizations."

Search for successors to B. S. Barker, who retires as executive vice president on December 1, and J. H. Lambert and Delmar C. Owens, who have resigned as membership secretaries effective October 1, is in the hands of the executive committee of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

Colonel Paxton's statement follows: "I have read with interest and appreciation Mr. Roy LeCraw's statement concerning the possibility of a merger of the Atlanta Convention and Tourist Bureau with the Chamber of Commerce. In some respects it may be unfortunate that the subject has been brought to the attention of the public at this time, in view of the fact that the present stage of negotiations scarcely warrants it. The proposal has not gone beyond the proposal stage."

The Atlanta Convention and Tourist Bureau is a unique organization. It was never a part of the Chamber of Commerce. It was organized in 1913 under the leadership of Wilmer Moore, and for a number of years under the administration of Ivan Allen, who as president of the organization, laid an enduring foundation for service to Atlanta. Since its inception, the bureau has been strictly to Atlanta each year hundreds of group meetings and thousands of visitors. Through this means, have frequently had their first glimpse of the great commercial, industrial and agricultural opportunities of this city and region.

Confidence suggested. Diversities were made to me a short time ago by officers of the Chamber of Commerce to obtain my views on the possibility of a merger. My reply was that under certain conditions the prospect might be viewed with favor, and I suggested that if the chamber desired a merger a committee be appointed to study the subject. I am sure that the committee will do its duty.

There has always been the greatest measure of cooperation between the two bodies. Until now it has seemed best to the bureau to preserve its autonomy for several reasons, among them being the one of considerable importance that, inasmuch as the work of the bureau is essentially one of cooperation with every other organization and agency in the city, it has been able to steer meticulously clear of all local controversies. Also, it has found it to be advantageous to be able to concentrate specifically on the faithful accomplishment of the one job which it has mapped out to do for the benefit of Atlanta without the necessity of ever having to shape its policy upon circumstances only remotely connected with its major activity.

A casual study of the proposal indicates that there would be only slight financial economies effected by a merger with any other organization. The overhead of the bureau is now reduced to a minimum figure, and it is already committed to the definite financial policy of putting every dollar of its income where that dollar can be put to most effective use in promoting the activities and such production efforts as bring a specific return on the investments which Atlanta is wisely making in this program.

No Action Taken. The suggestion that the Atlanta Convention and Tourist Bureau merge its identity with the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce has not as yet been referred to the board of the bureau. The subject has been discussed informally, but no action has as yet been taken toward putting the suggestion into such concrete shape that it may be considered. Of course I cannot speak for the board, but I am sure that no considerations of expediency would bear weight with its members in their disposal of the question.

I am sure that the proposal, when it reaches the board of the bureau, will be weighed on one basis only: the continued efficiency of the organization, and the possibility that the act of merging might be a contribution toward the civic solidarity of Atlanta and in that a source of inspiration and confidence to the citizens of our community.

If this can be accomplished without loss of efficiency in the work of bringing visitors to Atlanta, then it would be a very desirable thing. Those who have been close to this work have seen it accomplish many fine things in building up the wealth and prosperity of our city. We want the knowledge of its great value to become even more widespread than it now is, and to this end activity in informing the public of its accomplishments is now under way.

NEW CONSTRUCTION AIDING BUSINESS. WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—While reporting new activity in construction work the president's emergency committee for unemployment relief announced today that little change has been noted in the employment situation at Atlanta during recent weeks.

The committee made public the following conditions in Atlanta: "Building at Atlanta has been fairly active recently. The inspector of buildings at Atlanta reports for the week ending August 29, 65 permits for alterations, repairs and miscellaneous work at a cost of $16,279. Four permits were also issued for residential building amounting to $24,500, making a total of 69 permits costing $40,779 issued during the week."

"Business at Atlanta on the whole is quiet. A report from Cartersville, Ga., states that prospecting in manganese ore mines of that section is being actively carried on. A force of 40 men is working in double shifts and when conditions warrant this number will be increased."

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do that. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. You often break out in hives. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't take for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Beware of substitutes. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

Enrolling For Fall Term At Southern Business College, The Distinctive School

Now Is the Time to Make Preparation For Service.

Young people from Atlanta and many other places are now enrolling for business courses at the Southern Shortland and Business University. They know that the time is approaching when the businessmen will need all who are well prepared for work.

Several of the Southern's pupils are just gone to nice positions, indicating that the general trend of business is on the "upgrade."

The rapid coagulation of business into large units has created an unusual demand for secretaries—a demand which good schools are trying to meet.

The Southern's Secretarial Course has been carefully evolved to give the student the largest amount of training possible in the shortest time consistent with thoroughness.

The businessman or woman who has the foresight to be well trained is almost absolutely sure of ultimate success. Of course it takes time, effort, and industry to succeed in business just as it does in every other occupation, but success comes earlier than in any other vocation, and in larger measure.

It was Elbert Hubbard who said, "Business, as now conducted, requires specialized training and technical education—so much so, in fact, that the distinction between 'business' and 'profession' is fast disappearing."

In the selection of a business school, the prospective pupil would act wisely in choosing a school which has been accredited by the National Association of Accredited Commercial Schools.

The Southern Business College feels proud of the fact that it has been accepted as a member of the National Association of Accredited Commercial Schools.

A student in a school accredited by this Association enjoys several advantages that cannot be had in other private business training schools, no matter how meritorious they may be.

Rosh Hashana were held Thursday evening by the Or V'shalom congregation. Composed of more than 300 Spanish Jews, the congregation announced receipt of a rare gift from two members, Mr. and Mrs. E. Toul-ris, of 347 Central avenue. This gift, a sepher torah, is a holy Bible of Egyptian parchment—the most sacred book of the laws of Moses in Jewish temples. Speakers included Rabbi M. Sarfati, representing the congregation; Rabbi T. Geffen and Rabbi Harry Epstein. J. H. Nostrics, president of the congregation, was master of ceremonies. The Or V'shalom congregation plans to observe the full holiday period with religious ceremonies and feasting.

RICH'S

STREET FLOOR

Autumn flaunts the fulness of her bounty at RICH'S

We were so deliciously immersed in this Indian Summer weather out Decatur way Tuesday morning that we didn't notice, till we boarded a crowded street car, that school was opening again! Gracious! Another half hour found us in Rich's Girls' Shop buying an adorable and most useful school ensemble for our favorite niece. No, it wasn't ten dollars. Only five!

How dilatory of us not to have thought of school, when Rich's bore such buoyant evidence of it everywhere! On the street floor we edged our way up to a crowded table to purchase a perfect marvel of a brief case for the niece for only $1.69... breathing a reminiscent sigh over the way we used to rub holes in our checked pinafore with hugging Tarr and McMurray's geography et al. as we trudged down a sandy road...

And then, there is our lamp! Its polished brass bowl and storied French provincial shade were too much for our sales resistance... particularly when we saw it beside the maple rocker... particularly when we found it priced only $5, and recalled an almost-replica of it in a certain New York decorator's shop for twice that price...

And just imagine, when we stepped off the elevator on Rich's second floor... but that is another story!

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

My sister is engaged to marry a man who loves me. Years ago I gave him up to her because she loved him. I left home and while away they became engaged. I struggled to forget him. I took to drink and the wildest sort of life in an effort to put him out of my mind. Nothing helped me. I had always wanted to write and while I was in the hospital getting rid of the drink habit I did some good work that earned me some little reputation. During this period I met a college professor who became very dear to me. I don't love him although I have honestly tried to. If I were going to gamble with love I'd take him. I know I could make him happy. I am engaged to marry him.

I am facing one of three courses. I want you to tell me which one I should take. First, go away and come back. Second, marry the professor. Third, marry the man I love and the one who has honestly tried to. If I am not contented, I know he loves me.

LITTLE SISTER.

ANSWER: With your emotional instability I wouldn't dare advise you to do any of the three things you suggest. It is very plain that a decision made by you today may be revoked tomorrow. Until you can get hold of some co-ordinating principle in your life there is no telling what may happen to you or to those you love. You have embroiled four people in a situation so complex that it would take a Solomon to settle it with fairness and justice to the four of you. You had a fine generous impulse to give up the man you love to your sister and now, just as she is about to reach the consummation of her love, you arrive back on the scene, and with a brutal disregard of sisterly affection, you exchange love-glances or love-words with her fiancé, possibly both. You play with the thought of snatching her cup of happiness from her just as she raises it to her lips. Shame on you.

But, not satisfied with one exhibition of moral obliquity, you move on toward preparation for another. You toy with the thought of marrying a man you do not love, a man you expect to hate. That is not your affair. In spite of that fact, and with utter disregard of the damage such an unfair arrangement might do to his life's happiness.

You have given evidence of good impulses but also evidence of lack of conscience and lack of moral earnestness in seeing those impulses through to a good conclusion. A woman with a bad conscience is like a cedar tree that is infested with red spiders. It looks just like all the other cedars, for the insect is so tiny that it is not visible to the naked eye. But one fine day the green branches of the cedar turn brown, beginning at the bottom and up and up the ravages continue until the tree is dead.

Any builder will tell you that any sort of structure, no matter how good, is no better than the foundation on which it rests. Any marriage founded on a lie, any relationship built on deception, is no better than the lie and the deception. The marriage is as secure as the lie. Anybody who has ever told a lie knows that it will invariably come back to haunt him. The house of happiness is like other buildings, dependent on a good firm foundation. You cannot build one for yourself or for the man you are engaged to, without confessing the truth to him, namely, that you do not love him. You cannot build one for your sister by stealing your sister's fiancé. You cannot build one for her fiancé by allowing him to desert your sister, literally, at the altar.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

INSTALLMENT XI.

Grandmother Vale put down her coffee-cup quickly, and very red in the face reached for her water, in an effort to drown the fit of coughing that threatened. She took several long swallows. After she had inquired in a hoarse voice, "And do you wear no bathing-suit?"

"Sometimes when there's just girls, or I'm alone. It's delicious."

"It's indecent," said Grandmother Vale. "And so is this custom dancing with little or nothing on under your dress. It is inviting liberties from the opposite sex, and you know it."

Fabia flushed.

"I think it's horrid of you to say that, grandmother."

"Remember to whom you're speaking," her father warned her.

"I know, but father, I do! I think it's perfectly horrid of you older people to suspect us of the things you do, and we never even think of."

"You mean that you are very immature for your years, Fabia."

He was always reminding her of that, in that superior manner of his, almost accusing her of her innocence. She would just like to tell him that she wasn't so innocent as he thought. She had been kissed—held long and kissed upon the lips—and not ten hours ago! Oh, but the memory filled her only with a sense of indignation. She had been proud of her record of never having been kissed, even though her father did tease her with immaturity. And now a stranger had broken it! And he had broken it in such a rough, brutal, unbecoming way. Oh, perhaps her grandmother, sitting there in her stiff, black and white rigidity, was right, after all. Perhaps the "opposite sex," as she called it, was just waiting for chances to take liberties. Oh—well—she hadn't come here to discuss the "opposite sex."

"Father," she broke off, "I want to tell you about Thad."

"Your mother has already told me," he replied. "I am sorry, but one must be prepared for such catastrophes. I'll get you another dog sometime."

"Ring the bell, mother. I've finished. And pour me some coffee, please." He appeared to have disposed of the subject of Thad.

"I don't want another dog, father," said Fabia. "I've come simply to explain to you how the accident happened."

"Well, be as brief as possible. I'm late as it is."

Not a propitious moment to approach her father, thought Fabia, but as soon as he had heard the facts his sense of justice would be aroused. She told her story with the quiet accuracy she knew would please her father, and with as little emotion as possible. But he showed no sign of the righteous indignation that was smoldering beneath her calm exterior.

"But in a case of a man running away after an accident, father," said Fabia. "I've come simply to explain to you how the accident happened."

"Oh, I know! If I'd only kept still! If I—"

"The car was in its proper place," her father cut in, still defending Thad's murderer. "On the right-hand side of the road, and not on a greater rate of speed than you are aware is usual on that open stretch of highway."

"I know—but, father, after running over Thad he didn't stop," reiterated Fabia.

"Isn't there some law about stopping after running over what belongs to somebody else?"

"I'm not sure."

"Well, then, we ought to look it up, and be sure. That man ought to be punished, father, sent to prison, and made to suffer somehow for killing the dearest thing in the world to me, and then—"

"Don't dramatize, Fabia," said her father. "You really don't mean to say you intend to let that man go without even trying to punish him, do you?"

"It would only cause unpleasant publicity."

"Well, why should you be afraid of publicity if you're not ashamed of what you're doing?"

"One has to be more than not ashamed of what he does—he has to be proud of what he does," replied her father with pomp. "To enter into a quarrel with a stranger when there is no other object than to expose a sense of personal injury is not dignified. I have too many important affairs to attend to at present, to waste any energy on this matter."

Fabia rose. "Then you won't do anything, father?"

"I think it is wiser to drop the matter."

"Then I shall have to see what I can do myself."

"Don't be absurd. Understand, now that you are at home, that you cannot do anything that will result in unpleasant notoriety."

Fabia replied slowly: "I don't think I like acting on that principle. I think it makes a person cowardly."

"People in positions of leadership often have to act on principles that they do not like," remarked Grandmother Vale.

"I prefer not to be a leader if it robs me of freedom, grandmother," said Fabia.

"Join the rank and file, then, if freedom is all you want."

"I sometimes wish I could join the rank and file."

"Well, why don't you?" retorted her grandmother. "It's where you'll find most of the fools and failures."

Even at 83 Grandmother Vale could jump into an argument and not trip.

Fabia waited until the clock had struck eleven and then went to her mother's door and knocked. She was instantly answered by a cheerful "Come in."

Fabia's mother and father occupied separate rooms. Lisa's room was as unlike the solemn, monastic atmosphere of Rupert's as a garden in the sunshine is unlike a cave, and she had no attempt at exaggerated and exotic effects, but simply as lovely as a sensitive observance of color effects, textures, and proportions, as well as a love of comfort, door trims, baseboards, and window frames, as well as the bed, bureau, dressing table, and several delicate, cane-paneled chairs.

All were the same bright, singing, canary-bird hue. At the windows hung light delphinium-blue curtains, made of crisp taffeta, with ruffled-edged valances and ruffled-edged holdbacks. A blue velvet rug, thick-napped and as soft as a golf green, covered the entire floor to within four inches of the baseboard. The chaise-longue, with its pile of blue and yellow quilted pillows and quilted blue taffeta puff, was so distasteful to Grandmother Vale that she had never used it.

Rupert couldn't remember when Lisa had shown such keen interest in anything in redecorating her room. She had asked his advice at all, in spite of the fact that he was a director of the art museum, and often called in by the museum to pass judgment on contemplated purchases.

When finally Lisa's room was finished, Rupert had not approved of it any more than had his mother.

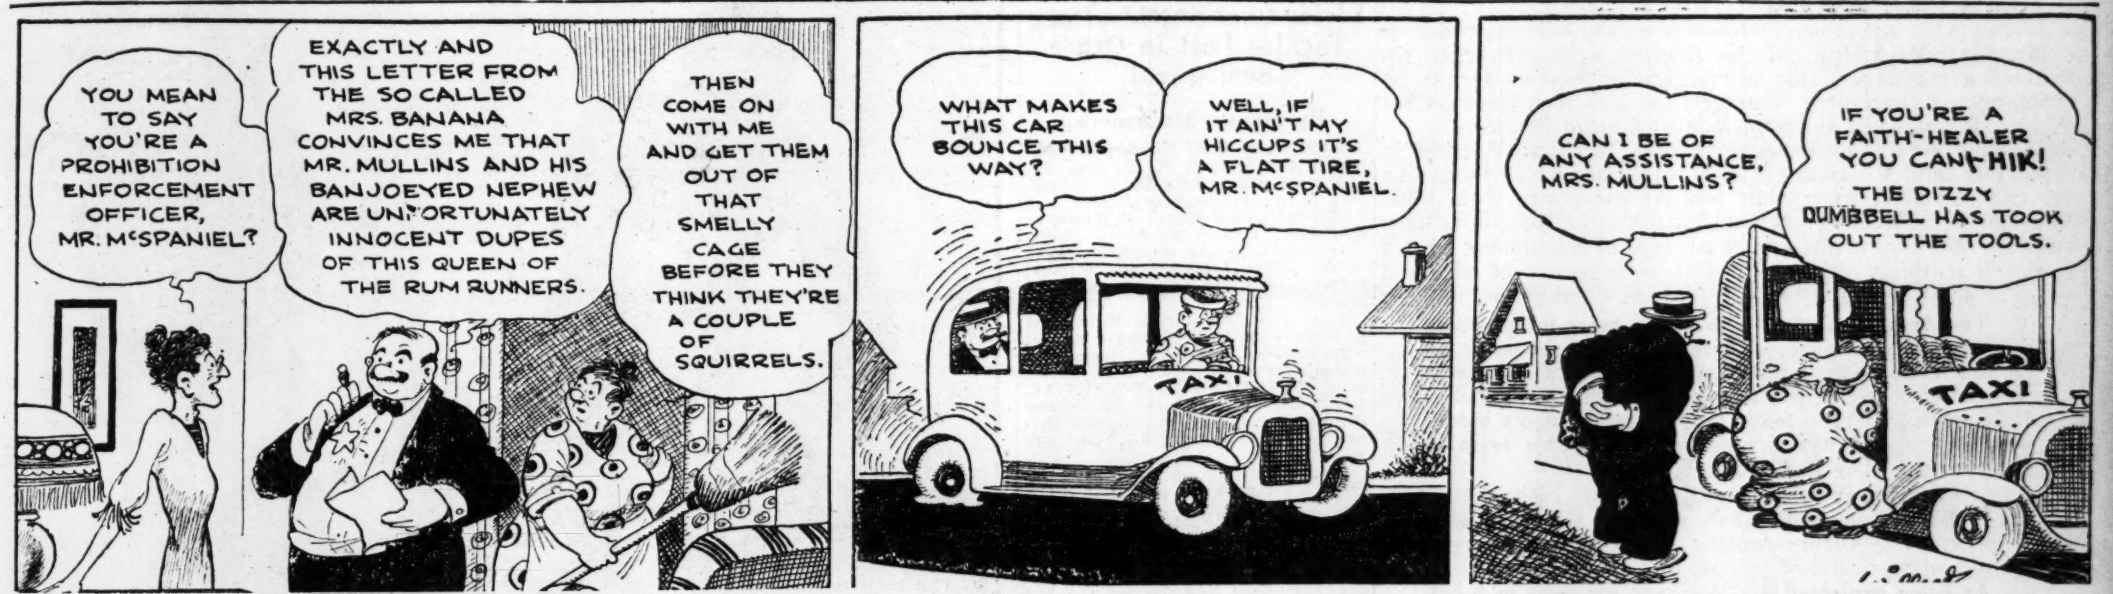

Rupert was the result of his stern and rigid bringing-up—the victim Lisa, in her comparative moments, called him to herself. His imperious mother had impressed upon him (had tried to impress upon all her boys at an early age) the necessity of high principles. She had pointed out to them example upon example of young men who had been ruined by position and wealth, leading lives of ease and self-indulgence in the pursuit of pleasure. Rupert was determined that position and wealth should never ruin him.

Rupert had two gods. They were intellectual efficiency and physical efficiency. Any act that was not in their service was futile, he thought, if not actually harmful. All indulgence of the senses was to be avoided. Rupert recognized the existence of the senses (he was well equipped with all five), but they were but a means to an end, and must be treated as such. So his mother had preached in his early boyhood days. Never fun for fun's sake. Always a worthy object in view, she had repeated to him over and over again.

Perry Faces Vines, Doeg Plays Lott in National Tennis Today; Shift of Casey Jones to Tackle Features Workout at Tech

AUBURN, Ala., Sept. 10.—Here at Auburn there is nothing lackadaisical about the football work. Practice resembles a meeting of the astrological society so far as its seriousness is concerned. One gets the idea that Messrs. Chet Wynne, Roger Kiley and Sam McAlister mean business.

Wynne wears an expression from the first Monday in September until the final game in November which looks like the one Napoleon wore while plotting the return from Elba. Kiley might be figuring out the dimensions of the cosmic rays and Sam McAlister might well be engaged in determining what x equals, if anything. I mean these boys are solemn of mien and intent of purpose, and the Auburn boys are finding it out rapidly.

The Auburn practice is probably more intense than any in the conference. There is no foolishness at all on the field. Kiley and Wynne did one of the finest jobs of coaching in the history of southern football in 1930 when they reported in the fall, established a brand-new system and turned out the best Auburn team in four years. They had to be serious.

And this season finds them just as serious. They are reaping a few fruits from their labors of 1930 but there is still a lot of work. The Auburn Athletic Association is getting a full eight hours of work out of its coaching staff.

As Kiley explained it, "We have the boys in a better frame of mind this season. They aren't afraid to ask questions and they have more confidence in themselves. It will take time and we have a lot of work to do yet."

Auburn hasn't the elaborate coaching staffs that some of the other conference schools have. There are just three varsity coaches and Wynne gives the team its setting-up exercises. But no staff works any harder. The Auburn coaches work at a hundred yard dash speed all afternoon.

THE BOYS ARE WILLING.

One had but to look at the boys to see that they were as determined as their coaches. Unless the Auburn alumni begin expecting too much from the start they should see an even better team than the one in 1930. The old Auburn spirit, which seems to be reborn each year with new vigor, is in evidence on the field and in the "Loveliest Village" itself.

And with determination and hustle leaning over the edges Auburn is sure to bound forward this season. Just how far remains to be seen. But there will be an advance.

Auburn alumni, of course, can aid the coaching staff no little by being modest in their expectations. The Tigers can't absorb a new system in two years and win all their games. The going will be tough from the start with Birmingham-Southern as the opener. But Auburn is coming forward. The material is better and smarter and the effects of the one year of training are easily apparent. The Tiger has set his feet on the road back.

The village of Auburn, which has stuck by the team in its lean years and thin, goes completely football each fall. The drug stores, the groceries, and the book shops all team with football conversation. And they tell me that it is the chief topic in the undertaking parlors. It is too bad that everybody can't spend part of his college career in a college which is located in a small town. The whole thing seems to be clearer defined.

KILEY SEES GREAT IRISH TEAM.

Roger Kiley, who was one of the late Knute Rockne's better ends, thinks that Notre Dame will have another winning team this fall.

"Those kids up there knew Rockne just enough to be able to forget him enough to be able to go on with the work, and to remember him enough to play all the better for him," said Kiley.

There may be something paradoxical in that at first reading. Kiley explained that as for the old men, who knew and loved Rockne through four years at Notre Dame and in after years as alumni, nothing would ever make them forget or soften the wounds that his passing gave.

The youngsters, on the other hand, knew him only a year or two. They will be able to play despite their loss and the memory of the man will make them play all the harder. They didn't know him long enough for the wounds to go as deeply as they did with the older men who played when Rockne was bringing Notre Dame from comparative football obscurity to the greatest peaks ever attained by a football team.

Kiley was at Notre Dame not long ago. "I don't think the place will ever seem the same to the old men," he said. "They will love it, but they will always be missing Rock."

BE SURE TO STOP.

Grantville, which is one of the stops on the way to Auburn, boasts one of the few remaining hotels where meals are served, year in and year out, as they were meant to be served in American hotels.

The chicken dinner menace has not yet hit Grantville. And the proprietors of the Hall hotel say it never will. Of late years America has gone haywire on its eating. There have been too many places where a piece of anemic chicken, a salad and a doily passed for a meal.

At the hotel at Grantville today we sat down to a dinner which was all on the table. One ate until one felt like quitting.

There were 10 vegetables. Your correspondent, being unduly interested in comestibles perhaps, took pencil and paper and brazenly listed them, at the table. There was rice, peas, potatoes, corn, beans, tomatoes, escalloped tomatoes, baked apples, okra and baked sweet potatoes. There was chicken, country ham, and Brunswick stew. And there was red ham gravy for the rice and biscuits. There was corn bread, light bread and biscuits. And there were three preserves, pickles, cake and iced tea.

Traveling men ate and staggered out into chairs on the front porch. The food is cooked by a cook who knows how. Oh, you must stop at the hotel at Grantville the next time you go to Auburn.

AUBURN'S GREATEST MAN.

Atlanta has furnished Auburn with her "greatest man." He is Big Boy Bedford, a sub for Boys' High last year. He is six feet five and a half inches and weighs 280 pounds.

And he is working. The freshmen have started here at school has took up, as the boys say. And Bedford is working as hard as any of them. He looks like one of the Auburn guards of 10 years ago. And he may be heard from next fall.

PERRY TO FACE VINES IN MEET AT FOREST HILLS

Victor Over Shields, Doeg Tackles Lott in Other Semi-Final.

By Henry McLemore,

United Press Staff Correspondent.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 10. (UP)—It will be John Doeg, of Newark, N. J., versus George Lott, of Philadelphia, and Ellsworth Vines, of Philadelphia, against Frederick Perry, of England, in the semi-final round of the golden jubilee men's national tennis singles championship here tomorrow.

Doeg and Lott earned their right to a place in the penultimate bracket with victories over seeded stars, Doeg whipping Frank Shields, New York's strapping Davis open, 6-2, 1-3, 5-8, 8-6, while Lott defeated his fellow-townsmen and Davis cup doubles partner, John Van Ryn, 5-7, 1-6, 6-0, 7-5, 6-1.

Two "outsiders" or unseeded players fell before Vines and Perry. The Californian, playing carelessly, eliminated Berkeley Bell, of Texas, 6-1, 6-4, 8-6, while the Englishman smashed and volleyed his way to a 6-2, 6-3, 6-4 triumph over Frank Bowden, the young New Yorker who had disposed of Sidney B. Wood in the third round.

DOEG SUPERB. Doeg, the defending champion and the man everybody said would be paying his way in after the first round, turned in a superb performance against his more noted opponent.

The champion, beaten in five of his six tournament starts this summer, was quite the underdog when he took the courts. But he had not played five minutes before the spectators knew that Shields was in for the battle of his life. Riding behind his tremendous service, a service that literally shattered Shields' defense, Doeg ran out the first set in less than 15 minutes.

Shields braced in the second, and play followed service until the 17th game when the New Yorker broke service for the first time to take the set at 9-8. His lead was short-lived, however, for the champion ran out the next three games with the loss of but three points.

SLACKENS PACE. Doeg wisely slackened his pace in the third set, saving his strength for a final assault in the fourth. He unleashed his attack after dropping the first game and chopped and sliced his way to a 5-2 lead. Then, with victory in his grasp, he faltered and Shields, refusing to admit defeat, spun three games in a row to tie things at 5-5.

In the fourteenth game Doeg had match point four times before he was able to smash through Shields' defense. Doeg was forced to stage a magnificent rally before overcoming Van Ryn during the first two sets. Van Ryn played as fine tennis as Forest Hills has ever seen. He simply could do no wrong. No matter where Lott placed the ball, Johnny was there to stab it back, often for a placement.

SIX STRAIGHT. Thinking of his strength, Van Ryn slowed down in the third set, and Lott swept through six games without much trouble. When the third annual Glens Falls open was his two rivals, John Golden and Macdonald Smith, faltered on their last rounds.

Burke's final round of 69, one unpar, gave him a 284 for the 72 holes. Burke ran away from the field on the last round, finishing five strokes ahead of Smith and Golden, playing together, who tied for second with 289. Golden could do no better than 75 on the last round and Smith had a card of 78. Burke won the first Glens Falls open two years ago.

Neal McIntyre, Indianapolis, and Tom Creavy, youthful Albany (N. Y.) professional, finished behind Smith and Golden with 290 each. Willie MacFarlane had a 291.

Stretching way back of the leaders were Ed Dudley, western open champion; Gene Sarazen, former open champion; Henry Cuic, Stratford, Conn., who paced the field yesterday; Johnny Farrell, erstwhile open title holder; Joe Turnesa and George Von Elm.

Rowden's deliberate technique was made to order for Perry's rushing game. The Englishman would drive the New Yorker to the base line with a deep forcing shot, and then lead him to the net. Rowden always tried, and always with little success.

Vines and Perry have yet to be tested. The Californian experimented with his shots throughout his match with Bell, yet won in a walk. In the third set Vines allowed Bell to run up a 4-1 lead before stepping on the gas and taking seven out of the next nine games.

Schaaf flattens Roberti in Boston

BOSTON, Sept. 10.—(UP)—Ernie Schaaf, slugging Boston heavyweight, registered his ninth consecutive knockout tonight by flattening ponderous Roberto Roberti, New York Italian, in the third round of the Argonne A. A. feature contest, scheduled for 10 rounds. Schaaf weighed 207 and gave away 17 pounds.

Carnera, Sharkey Must Post Forfeits

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—(UP)—Primo Carnera, Italian, and Jack Sharkey, of Boston, each of whom has laid claim to the world's heavyweight championship, and who are to meet at Brooklyn October 1, were today instructed by the New York state boxing commission to post a bond of $5,000 each before September 20, and to begin training at a site in the metropolitan area not later than 10 days before the fight date.

Jimmy Foxx Is Added To Mack Hospital List

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10.—(UP)—The latest addition to the Philadelphia Athletics' hospital list is Jimmy Foxx. He will be out of action for at least a week with a strained ankle, Connie Mack announced today.

Foxx was injured in the eighth inning of yesterday's game with Washington when he became tangled up with Heinie Manush at first base.

A Second Before Austie Hurt That Arm

Austie Downes, Georgia football captain, reported for practice with a badly sprained arm in a cast. The arm had been injured while doing stunts on the sands at Savannah Beach with a couple of other Georgia stars a few days before practice started. From Savannah comes this photograph taken of the stunt wherein Downes was hurt. Left to right, jumping, Jimmy Patterson, guard, and Downes. The young man on the sand is Catfish Smith. In landing Downes slipped in the sand and sprained his arm badly at the wrist. He is expected to be in good shape in two or three weeks.

BURKE IS WINNER AT GLENS FALLS

Blistering 69 in Final Round Gives Open Champion Victory.

By Walter Brown.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 10. (UP)—Billy Burke, playing in his first tournament since he won the national open golf championship at Inverness in July, today won the third annual Glens Falls open as his two rivals, John Golden and Macdonald Smith, faltered on their last rounds.

Burke's final round of 69, one unpar, gave him a 284 for the 72 holes. ## Charley Moore Likely To Be New Robin Pilot

Former Macon Manager and His Portable Ball Club May Solve Brooklyn's Problem.

By Jimmy Jones.

Charles A. Moore, whose Hartford Senators have just cawalked to the Eastern league pennant with a percentage of better than 700 (a new record for that circuit), is going to Brooklyn and is taking nine of his ball players with him.

It is not the first time that Don Carlos, as the newspaper boys affectionately call him, has received the summons to leadership and has come dashing out of the bushes to the rescue of higher class ball clubs, bringing his own crew of relief workers along.

It seems to be Charley Moore's mission in baseball to put tottering second division teams up through the shaft to the cool, wholesome air around the top; and, like a contractor, when he accepts a bid his own force is already trained to help him with the job. The saga of Charley Moore's portable ball club is covered by the figure 3—three years as manager, three different leagues and three pennant winners.

Like a musician running the scales of notes, Charley Moore has jumped from D to B, and from B to A without a single discordant wobble.

CAREFUL NURSING. For three years the Brooklyn club has nursed this 22-year-old clean-cut chap from Louisville, Ky., through the minor leagues, and at last his constant glow of managerial genius has arrested the eyes of the greatly harassed gentlemen who occupy the swivel chairs in the Flatbush front offices and glare coldly at the vague course the Robins are pursuing in the National league standings. So they have sent for the Francois Villon of the minors to come and rout the Broomfielders.

Moore's purchase from Hartford can mean but two things. He will be either coach or manager of the 1932 Robins and chances favor the latter. His playing days are over, especially insofar as the majors are concerned and his success as a minor league pilot gives him the inside track in the race for the Brooklyn job.

Moore's advancement could be called a parallel to that of Gabby Street, except that it is more sensational. Gabby was never any great shakes as a minor league manager.

MAY BE COACH. The Robins may employ the same policy with Moore, however, that the Cards used on Street. They may keep him around a year as coach for closer scrutiny, and those who know Moore expect an immediate promotion.

It was a weak throwing arm that started Moore on the road to success. Usually weak arms do not follow in the other way in baseball, but not in Charley's case. He was the star catcher of the Macon Peaches from 1925 to 1929. In the spring of that year, Brookline, which operated the Macon club, also purchased the Rocky Mount (N. C.) team of the Eastern Carolina league (class D).

Major J. D. Blair, the Macon club president at the time, had noticed Moore's smartness in handling pitchers, so he suggested to Nap Rucker that Moore would be a good man to send up to Rocky Mount to give the youngsters a few kindergarten pointers.

MOORE BALKS. Moore did not greet the proposition with gusto. In fact, he balked flatly at the proposal. He wanted to remain with the Macon club as catcher in preference to going to a lower league. But Charley's throwing wing did not have the old story, so he was practically forced to take the job. Now he probably thanks his lucky stars.

BULLDOGS OPEN HEAVY TRAINING

Fundamentals Stressed in Thursday Work; Brisk Competition Assured.

By Al Smith.

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 10.—Quite some fight is brewing among members of the Georgia football team as the Bulldogs settle into the steady work of the Georgia Institute of Technology drill field near Sanford stadium. Before many more days they will be at it—hammer and tongs.

The fight, to allay heart failure on the part of Georgia supporters, will be among some 40 Bulldog candidates for the honor of playing on the first string team when the Bulldogs carry the colors of Georgia on to far-flung gridiron battlefields of the nation.

An unusually large number of good players came up from the freshmen and reserve teams and appear on the verge of a grand and glorious free-for-all with the regulars. The new men have been digging their cleats into the turf at practice, and going about their business in a determined manner.

Harry Mehre, who is head coach in these parts, just smiles to himself these days when he thinks of the jolt the sophomores and reserves are going to give the seniors right soon. Coach Mehre doesn't expect any kind of a championship team, but if the new men get going, Georgia will do quite well, thank you.

The Bulldogs got their last workout in abbreviated costumes this afternoon, as Coach Mehre announced that they will step into full regalia Friday instead of Saturday. Rough work, real rough work, will begin about tomorrow, the first four days having been devoted mainly to toughening the boys up. Some of them had held their light jobs as working on highways and loading scrap iron this summer.

Today's session was given over to the fundamentals. Such things as taking out opposing linemen and backs were given considerable attention. The Bulldogs also learned a few new plays. And practiced on some old ones.

Dean S. V. Sanford, founder and president of the Southern conference for eight years, who is an outstanding figure in American college athletics, visited the Bulldogs for the first time this afternoon. He underwent a serious operation early this spring and is still recuperating.

Marion Dickson, varsity halfback, will be out for several days due to the removal of his tonsils recently. Dickson, an all-Southern back last year, was out of bed today, but will not engage in any heavy work for a while.

GREY DEVIL END GETS PROMOTED TO VARSITY LINE

Alexander Has Three Full Elevens Running Signals in Rotation.

By Jimmy Jones.

The everlasting hope that smolders in the ranks of the Tech Grey Devils was given another reward yesterday afternoon when Lawrence, an end, was called over to the varsity squad. The reason for the move was that Casey Jones was shifted to tackle, and Lawrence was moved in to take his place in the flank department.

Jones' experience should help things at tackle, where the material can stand more seasoned reinforcements. The Rose Bowl field took on a Notre Dame effect yesterday when Coach Alexander Cannon and Good had three picked teams instead of two alternating at running signals, while the rest of the squad followed the plays.

SWAP AROUND. One eleven would run through the simple off-tackle plays awhile with the second on defense and the third looking on. Then they would swap around. The result was that 33 men took an active part in the work, to say nothing of several substitutions that were made.

The boys seemed to grasp the early stuff well enough and, while there was no heavy contact, the blockers were carrying out their assignments fairly accurately in the dummy scrimmaging. Most of the work was a rehearsal of plain off-tackle bucks, with an occasional power play from punt formation.

33 STALWARTS. The three teams that saw the bulk of the action yesterday were as follows: Team 1: Goldsmith and Lackey, ends; Clingan and Tharpe, tackles; Branch and Laws, guards; Neblett, center; Hart and Davis, halfbacks; McArthur, quarterback, and Cherry, fullback.

Team 2: Spradlin and Lawrence, ends; Jones and Brady, tackles; Stalaker and Seidenberg, guards; Pool, center; Ferguson and Goodings, halves; Peeler, quarter, and McCallie, fullback.

Team 3: Isaacs and Slocum, ends; Farmer and Gardner, tackles; Warner and Adams, guards; Murray, center; Galloway and Barron, halves; Peterson, quarter, and Black, fullback.

Verrier also was sent in at one of the quarterback posts. These three teams were listed from a standpoint of rank at all. Coach Alexander makes it plain that there will be no first team this year. He's merely trying to figure out one or two combinations from the hand-picked squad of 37.

Meanwhile Mack Tharpe and Kenneth Tharpe are putting the Gray Devils through. Coach Alexander could not say yesterday exactly when the real scrimmage will begin, but the fact remains that it won't be long. Each day has seen a certain definite progress on the elementary work and the principal thing now is getting everybody in shape. Next week probably will see things picking up right along.

More emphasis was placed on passing yesterday and also on pass defense. Bobby Dodd took the backs and ends aside after the signal drill and had some of the backs passing while others tried knocking them down. Bobby Dodd, Galloway, Hart and Peeler are all showing plenty of leg drive, for so early in the training. The Tech coaches still are endeavoring to make a tackle of Tom Cain. It is too early to estimate his abilities at the job.

Among the spectators yesterday was Vance Maree, the mighty tackle of the last three years. It seemed a bit ironic to see a big, powerful man like Maree walking around in street clothes—and very dapper street clothes at that. Vance is going in the fall for a business—not moving it, but selling it.

The X-ray of Doug Graydon's knee was looked at yesterday, and Coach Alexander expressed little hope that the speedy halfback would be able to play at all this season. The chances are he won't be.

Patterson was moved over to 4 o'clock to avoid the heat.

Jones and Ouimet Pair in Exhibition

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—(UP)—Robbie Jones and Jimmy Ouimet, 1930 and 1931 national amateur golf champions, will meet Billy Burke, 1931 open king, and George Von Elm, businessman golfer, in a four ball match for charity at the Essex Country Club, West Orange, N. J., September 23.

Jones thus will be playing with two of the men who succeeded to half of the four major golf crowns he won when he retired from amateur competition.

Bobby's first just with one of his successors will come Sunday, September 20, when he meets Burke at Greenwich, Conn.

Prize Fighter Held After Motor Wreck

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Sept. 10.—(UP)—J. D. (Kid) Downey, lightweight pugilist formerly of Hartford, Conn., and C. A. Riggs, were held in jail here today in connection with a motor accident last night in which John Loweth, 18-year-old messenger boy, was fatally injured.

Loweth died from injuries received, when his motorcycle collided with an automobile driven by Downey and also occupied by Riggs. An inquest was set for tomorrow.

Mumps Cause Worry At Loveliest Village

AUBURN, Ala., Sept. 10.—Mumps—just the plain, every-day, garden variety of mumps—has the Auburn football coaching staff worried.

Last season's Auburn football team was disrupted by an epidemic of mumps and appendicitis. Thursday night, after practice, Trainer Wilbur Hutsell discovered that one of the boys, Ferrell Searcy, a guard on the varsity squad, had all the symptoms of mumps.

If an epidemic starts the team might be wrecked. Hence the genuine agony with which coaches are awaiting the verdict Friday.

PUTNO IS STAR AT OGLETHORPE; KENZIE DRILLS

Robertson Prods Sluggish Line as Teams Scrimmage Hard.

By Jack Troy.

Oglethorpe's Stormy Petrels again roared over the coals of Coach Harry Robertson's wrath yesterday as they engaged in their third successive scrimmage of the week.

The scrimmage set the privileged onlookers to wondering whether the freshmen were that tough or the varsity line was merely lax in carrying out their assignments, for the leading players were full of battle and held their own more often than not. And they didn't have the formidable tackling of diminutive Shorty Roberts to rely upon, either. Roberts wasn't out yesterday.

Dan Kenzie, husky tackle, put on shoulder pads and appeared in his first scrimmage, but, for the time, at least, his efforts didn't tend to improve the situation a great deal. The formidable forward wall just wasn't functioning smoothly, team-work was discordant, individual members weren't blocking.

JOHN PUNTO IS STAR. In pleasing contrast was the brilliant running of several of the backs. John Punto looked especially good. He ripped through the line time after time for gains.

Dapper Myers, Claude Herrin, Ray Walker, Jack Harrison, Lefty Sport and Sam Baker all played flashily in the session. Triple reverses, the submarine pass and long aerials were worked.

Dapper Myers gave Claude Herrin splendid interference on the first touchdown that was made. Myers led Herrin around end and cleared a path straight to the goal.

STOVALL TO END. Myers made a touchdown and a second by Punto completed the scoring. Harry Wren was away racing down the sidelines when a floppy headgear slipped down over his eyes. He was lucky not to have wound up in a water pail.

Coach Robertson yesterday shifted Julian Stovall, one of the numerous guards, to end and the change seemed to suit the husky youngster.

TUFFY AGREES.

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—(P)—Tuffy Griffiths, Chicago and Sioux City heavyweight, today signed to meet Ernie Schauf, of Boston, in the main 10-round event of the Chicago stadium's opening fall ring show September 23.

The Final Winner.

Here I shall wait
To meet the rush of some relentless fate,
Content to know that I will be supreme
Against the bitter sword that life may wave;
Where I shall hold to one eternal dream
Of courage riding rough-shod to the grave.

Here I shall stand
Against fortune, with its crushing hand,
And, though it crowd me to its lowest pit
Where I may see no starlight in the sky,
Yet I shall struggle upward, bit by bit,
Until I see the white dawn drifting by.

The game means more
Than any flare of glory from the score;
The dawn is brightest that we see at last
Through shadows blacker than the stain of sin,
And when we know the final fight is past,
What is there left worth while for one to win?

The Crowd Gathers.

This was the year in which baseball was supposed to be on its way down hill. If baseball is cracking up, so is the bear market. Which is the sport that consistently has drawn the greatest crowds all year?

The vital statistics tell the story beyond any argument. You had part of the answer when the Giants and Yankees drew over 60,000 in their first meeting at the Yankee stadium this week.

As far as 1931 is concerned, there have been several baseball crowds that went about 60,000. There have been a few more that passed 50,000. There have been any number that passed 40,000. With the football season still to show its 1931 returns, baseball has gone beyond any other sport for big crowds, and if there was only space enough the Athletics and Cardinals would play to 100,000 a game.

Owning no stock in a baseball enterprise or even a baseball cover, it is something to see the old game more than hold its own in a tough year, in spite of two lopsided pennant races which seemed to be over a month ago.

Perry and Vines.

Fred Perry, of England, and Ellsworth Vines, of California, playing in the semi-final round of the national championship, will bring about one of the star international battles of the year. Perry is one of the two young Englishmen, the other being Bunny Austin, whom Bill Tilden picks as the next winners of the Davis cup. Nineteen-year-old Vines is regarded as the main young American hope, one of the most promising of the younger tennis crop to come through in a long while.

Bunny Austin is still the tennis

SLUGGER ADMITS TRAINING RULES WERE BROKEN

Fines for Season Total $6,000; Trouble With Hornsby Denied.

By George Kirksey.

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—(UP)—Hack Wilson, short of his batting laurels and burdened with trouble, will leave tomorrow for his home at Martinsburg, W. Va., to hunt and fish and await news of his transfer from the Chicago Cubs to some other baseball club—major or minor.

Still insisting that the higher-ups on the Cubs made him the "goat" of the unfortunate affair at Cincinnati last Saturday night when Pat Malone, Chicago pitcher, slugged two newspaper men, Wilson, however, refuses to blame anyone but himself for his prodigious batting slump.

"I'm a hell of a long way from through," said Wilson, "and I still have four or five more years of major league baseball in me. I'll prove it, too, regardless of where the Cubs send me."

"Did you break the training rules as much as Hornsby said you did?" Wilson was asked.

BROKE RULES.

"Yes, I broke the training rules but not any more than last year. The difference was that I was batting .356 last year and hitting plenty of home runs. This year I was batting below .300 and couldn't get going."

"They say I started breaking training rules as far back as spring training. Well, Hornsby told us we could take a drink as long as we were in bed by midnight, and I didn't violate the rule any more than some of the other players did."

When they found out I had broken training this year, Hornsby would tell me to report to the office and President Veeck would fine me. Last year, if I stayed out late, Joe McCarthy would call me off and tell me to lay off that stuff and I obeyed him."

DRUNKENNESS CHARGED.

"When they suspended me, Veeck said the charge was 'being drunk.' Well, I wasn't any more drunk than I am right now and you can see for yourself that I'm not intoxicated. It looks to me like they wanted to get rid of me and they pinned the first thing that came along on me."

As far as Hornsby is concerned, Wilson said that the Cubs' manager didn't have anything to do with his batting slump. The former star outfielder refused to comment on the rumors that he and Hornsby had trouble.

"All I have to say about the management of the Cubs is that I think it will be a long time before they build up as successful a team as Joe McCarthy did," said Wilson.

HEAVILY FINED. Wilson revealed that he had lost about $6,000 of his $33,000 salary this year in fines.

"I took those fines with my chin up," said Wilson, "but the two things that hurt me most were when they put a pitcher out in the outfield and made me ride the bench, and then they promised me hot seats to the Cubs-White Sox charity game and gave me seats in the upper tier out in right field."

Asked if he had any preference where he played next year, Wilson said he didn't care where they sent him.

"I can play ball any place," he said. "I don't think they can waive me out of the majors, but even if they do that, I'll start my comeback in the minors and be back. The Giants sent me back to the minors and I came back, and I can do it again."

Colored Officials Meet Here Today

Football coaches and officials of the colored Southern conference will meet in a two-day session at the Butler Street Y. M. C. A. beginning today at 9:30 o'clock, and lasting through Saturday.

The meeting is held annually for the interpretation of the rules. Richard B. Collins, chairman of the rules committee, will seek a uniform interpretation for all conference officials.

Over 20 football coaches, representing some of the leading colleges and universities in Dixie, will be present. The three Atlanta institutions, namely, Morehouse, Morris Brown, and Clark University, will be hosts to the visitors.

All southern colleges will get down to work Monday, September 14, in preparation for the coming football season, which officially opens the first Saturday in October.

Robin Manager?

A LIQUID 'LUNCH' TO BRING BACK YOUR PUNCH

10, 2 and 4 o'clock are everybody's "Zero" hours, when the energy supply is low. You can wait it out 'till meal time and run along on your nerve. But it helps a heap to walk out of your worries and drink a bite to eat. Try it. You feel spiffy... in just a jiffy.

$28,000,000 against your 25¢!

"Enjoy 5 perfect shaves or your money back!" so reads the bond of a $28,000,000 Surety Co. wrapped about every Ammco blade!

Have you a razor blade complex? Do you think—(from sad experience)—that no blade can come between you and your whiskers more than two or three times—without begging for help? • All right. Here's a proposition. Switch to Ammcos for one whole week. Present your stropper, or your honing machine, to Junior and his pals. (You don't have to stop Ammcos!) Then slide the same Ammco blade 'round your chin, not for just two or three mornings, but for FIVE mornings!—yes, FIVE mornings in a row! And if you don't greet your mirror the fifth time with a happy grin, and say "Boy, I'm sold! A blade like this makes shaving faster—cheaper—pleasanter!"—then a $28,000,000 surety company says, "Return the blades and we return your purchase money!" • Start today! You can't go wrong!

Ammco's amazing five shave performance is due to keener steel—triple factory inspection! New York, Chicago, and Philadelphia were first to test this new blade. Now man after man in every State of the Union is switching to Ammco! Ammco, 150 W. 28th St., New York City.
